

Nations League Examines Palestine Situation Behind Closed Doors

HEAR REPORT OF BRITISH ON MANDATE

Interest Centres About Recently Suspended Immigration

Associated Press

GENEVA, June 4—Behind closed doors the permanent mandate committee of the League of Nations yesterday examined the delicate situation in Palestine.

The first step was to hear the report of the British government on its own case, but mandatory Palestine is proceeding in its efforts to maintain the status quo in Palestine, as between Jews and Arabs, in this holy land, the League heard.

There were Hon. Drummond Shield, under secretary of state for the dominions, and Sir George Gavan Duffy, the high commissioner in Palestine; and T. E. Lawrence.

In a written report Secretary Shield recommended that the British government take no further steps to implement its mandate to execute the mandate, to provide a national home for Jews and to protect the civil rights and political rights of non-Jewish populations in Palestine.

Interest centered about the matter of the proposed immigration bill of Great Britain. Protests from Jewish communities all over the world have reached the League, which has recommended suspension, which evidently brought down the bill. The League has never uttered severer criticism from those most anxious to see the British act to succeed.

There was no lack of suggestion that the present troubled state of India was connected with this imminent legislation, and that it was not so favorable to the Arab contention.

Sir George Gavan Duffy has drawn many such comments.

Letters and cables from Foreign Secretary Hon. Arthur Henderson before the committee Monday—were very assuring.

The principles on which Britain had come to a decision on Palestine economic welfare is a permanent one, and not beyond the capacity of the League to accept.

How to determine the point of saturation in Palestine, and what to do, was its most difficult problem.

After the mandates committee had heard the British report, the committee accepted a study of the Shaw report, if any recommendations regarding the British administration of Palestine were to be made to the League in September. These recommendations may or may not be passed by the committee, but it was understood that it was understood here that the committee would accept them, that any expression of the mandates commission be made public.

Papers Say New Dominion's Minister Fitted For Post

BY THOMAS T. CHAMPION
Editor, The Star Staff Correspondent

LONDON, June 4.—Appointment of the Right Hon. H. H. Asquith as foreign minister of the dominion of Canada was a great satisfaction added to the day of his arrival at the Imperial economic conference in London.

The Daily Mail describes Mr. Thomas as not one of the best known men in England, but well known and trusted in Canada. It will be a source of great satisfaction to the Daily that he has been chosen to represent the Imperial economic conference in London.

The Empire in Issue

The Canadian Press remarks on Mr. Thomas' position as the result of direct personal contact with the leaders of the Empire.

"Thomas' appointment depends," says the Express, "upon the way in which Mr. Thomas has been received in London. He is the depth of real feeling favored it both in Canada and in England. The free trade traders are no more than that, and are not without hindrance."

Quoted in full: "Not Enthused."

The regular Conservative press is not so enthusiastic. The Yorkshire Post and the Daily Mail are of the opinion that the policy change is a mistake for the better.

The London Morning Post makes an attack on the Canadian government and cabinet and remarks: "Thomas' has been received with a certain amount of suspicion by the English, and the widowers in the Empire."

The London Evening Standard adds: "The Canadian government has been given a chance to prove itself."

The Daily Telegraph also welcomes the appointment.

A TRY FOR DEVELOPMENT

A permit has been granted to a Denver company to carry on experimental work in the separation of oil and gas from the water in the sands, and it is possible that they will be awarded a lease of a considerable area of the deposits. Both the permit and the lease are conditional upon the investment of a considerable amount of capital and the carrying on of active development operations.

In effect the company agree to stake a large amount of money on the success of their experiments. If they fail they get nothing. If they succeed, they get a chance to turn the results of their experiment to advantage, the mutual advantage of themselves and the country. Those who appreciate the extent and importance of this project may well hope that the undertaking may succeed beyond all expectations.

BACK TO THE LAND

During May 607 homesteads were entered for in the Edmonton land district. The figure is upwards of double that of May last year, and sets a new record. This is encouraging, but the explanation may be that a good many of the immigrants who have come to the city in recent months are taking to the land. That would accord with the fact that money in the city is scarce at present, with little prospect of becoming more plentiful.

If this is the explanation, it is all to be hoped that the movement is general all over the country. It is to be hoped that all the cities in the west are oversupplied with unskilled labor. There is no practical possibility that new work will open up in the cities, so the mutual advantage of themselves and the country. Those who appreciate the extent and importance of this project may well hope that the undertaking may succeed beyond all expectations.

A STICKLER

Quite evidently the Dunning budget is causing the Conservative party of the Dominion to criticise a pretty considerable amount of trouble. Very plainly they do not know what to do about it, and seem to strongly suspect that the best they can do is leave it alone.

Mr. Bennett led off by lodging a complaint that the Minister had stolen a good part of his policy—the most valuable, by far, by the way, of his program. But his many friends do not see that they can make much headway attacking proposals which they have hitherto advocated, just because Dunning has adopted some of them. There are, however, two reasons why, after all, the tariff is not the only important subject that can be talked about, and that is not to be the chief storm center of the campaign. The main reason is that the best we can do is leave it alone.

Mr. Bennett led off by lodging a complaint that the Minister had stolen a good part of his policy—the most valuable, by far, by the way, of his program. But his many friends do not see that they can make much headway attacking proposals which they have hitherto advocated, just because Dunning has adopted some of them. There are, however, two reasons why, after all, the tariff is not the only important subject that can be talked about, and that is not to be the chief storm center of the campaign. The main reason is that the best we can do is leave it alone.

The fact is that the more the budget is studied, the clearer it becomes that it is a tough problem for any critic to tackle. We agree with him that it should shape the national policy, but to do more of our buying where we do our selling, and particularly to stimulate trade with other British nations. These are the only basically underlying the budget; and the harm to be in line with what Canadians of all parties are thinking.

VETERANS' ALLOWANCES

The machinery is being set up at once to administer the fund that parliament at the rear session has decided will be a flat payment of allowances to "burned out" veterans. This is the phrase used to denote former members of the overseas forces of the country who escaped capture but have been made prematurely aged by the hardships they underwent while on service.

The allowance is not large, $20 per month to those who have been disabled for life, and $40 to a married man—but it is a substantial measure of relief for a class of men who are really, though not heretofore technically, victims of war disabilities. The men whom it will help are, in no other country there has yet made similar provision. There will be no grudging of these "pensions" on the part of the taxpayers, who will on the contrary derive satisfaction in knowing that Canada is doing more than other countries to lighten the handicaps which were incurred by its fighters.

The administrative body which will dispense these allowances will include men who are relatively young through the experience which fell to the lot of others. It may thus be assumed that the attitude of the board to the applicant for an allowance will be one of sympathy. After all, a year ago in regard to the administration of pensions, that is a consideration of first rate importance. Another satisfactory arrangement is that the medical board is to put up to as little trouble as possible in ascertaining his claim and proving his case.

The public will heartily approve both the composition of the administrative committee and the simplicity of the process by which deserving applicants may secure the assistance that has been provided for them. This assistance is not in the nature of charity, but the payment of a sum which is sufficient to insure that a claimant should get considerate treatment, and that there should be a minimum of red tape for him to untangle in order to get the money that is his due.

The Borrowed Child

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Once there was a neighbor who owned an old hand truck. He had one little one. In to me while she was gone, and I could not find her. And I smiled; and I thought, "I'll never get home again." I could catch a child at play.

Oh, the joy, that for a while I could share that happy smile! I could go to the window, break bread, and be very fearful lest someone should see me. But my mother was away. Very glad I was indeed.

Not for long could she remain. Soon she must go home again. Soon she must go away from me. She had to go, and I had to let her go. But so lovely and so sweet was she, and so kind, that I wanted her to stay longer with me than a day.

On you trundled hearts and said, "We'll be back when you're ready, and we'll be with you always." And when God just placed a baby fair in your tender bosom, you came home again. Came and took her home again.

Not for long could she remain. Soon she must go home again. Soon she must go away from me. She had to go, and I had to let her go. But so lovely and so sweet was she, and so kind, that I wanted her to stay longer with me than a day.

On you trundled hearts and said, "We'll be back when you're ready, and we'll be with you always." And when God just placed a baby fair in your tender bosom, you came home again. Came and took her home again.

HARDLY A PLEASANT VISTA
The above picture, taken from the front door of the Macdonald Hotel, shows the view that greets all visitors to Edmonton who stop at "O" west of the city's leading hotel. Prominent business leaders, town planning and railway interests believe that action must be taken to improve the surroundings of the hotel and that provision should be made by the government and the directors of the Canadian National Railways to take care of the necessary expense. The Macdonald hotel represents a huge capital investment of the money of the people of Canada. It is regrettable that the present state of affairs is such that the value of the hotel is being depreciated. The present state of affairs is allowed to exist. Town planning experts suggest that authority be given for the Canadian National Railways to secure all the property facing the hotel in the block fronting the street to Thornton Court, and so to proceed with the creation of a modern business block on part of the site to house the local executive offices of the C.N.R., which are at present scattered throughout the city. This would give the Macdonald hotel a more dignified and attractive impression of Edmonton to all visitors making their headquarters at the Macdonald.

Should the Canadian National Railways be compelled to do something about what has been always understood to be the original plan of purchasing the property which stands between the Macdonald hotel and Jasper Avenue and the railway line? We believe that the surroundings of the hotel and its approach should be improved to those passing on the city's main thoroughfares.

Premier Promised

During his last visit to Edmonton the Right Honorable King made the following statement to a massive audience in St. Peter's Anglican church: "I have been going over your city. I have seen what has come out of the conductor's association. We are going to improve the surroundings of the Macdonald hotel. When we return to Ottawa, the matter shall be brought up again and a definite date set."

This statement was received with great deal of enthusiasm and was followed by a further assurance from Sir Robert Borden that he would bring upon Sir Henry Thorson and the Board of Directors of the Canadian National Railway, when later on he came to Edmonton, a proposal which had been drawn up to the matter, and he was asked to ascertain if he could go to the whole business when he came to Edmonton.

As the vice-president of the railway, was the next link in the chain of command. When Mr. Watson, who had been specially asked by Sir Robert Borden to look after the matter of improving the hotel's surroundings.

He had several conferences with

The Macdonald ApproachADDRESSED TO THEIR FELLOW CITIZENS BY THE MERCHANTS AND BUSINESS MEN WHOSE NAMES APPEAR ELSEWHERE ON THIS PAGE

Below Citizen: Among those (including Sir Harry Thorson and the Board of Directors of the Canadian National Railway) who have taken the trouble to acquaint themselves with the situation, there exists but one opinion, which is that any scheme for the beautification of Edmonton should begin at the front entrance of the Macdonald hotel.

By reason of its imposing scale and admirable embodiment of Western ideals of living, the Macdonald is the stopping place of visitors to our city, representing the far-reaching and powerful influence of all over the world. It is clear that the improvements—feasible or otherwise—derived by such visitors, might well determine events vitally affecting the rate of development and prosperity of the whole community.

To the citizens of Edmonton it is apparent that the approach to the Macdonald Hotel tends to mar the good impression created by the hotel itself! We currently appeal to any of our fellow citizens who still have any doubts on this point to make public, forthwith, by a personal communication to the editor of some newspaper, and then to write to Sir Harry Thorson and the Board of Directors of the Canadian National Railways the necessity for immediate and appropriate action.

By appropriate action we mean the acquisition by the Canadian National Railways of the property between the Macdonald hotel and Jasper Avenue, and such purchase, according to the opinion of the Macdonald, may be necessary to effect the complete removal of whatever condition exists thereon to the detriment not only of the Macdonald Hotel, but of the good results that might otherwise accrue to the City of Edmonton. This being absolutely inadequate, however, gives a setting more in keeping with its dignity and purpose.

The city commissioners, saying that they wished to ascertain if the city itself was willing to take any assistance towards the cost of purchasing the necessary property. When Mr. Watson, who had been specially asked by Sir Robert Borden to look after the matter of improving the hotel's surroundings, to the city how far it was prepared to go.

This communication arrived in the city on the 20th instant, and the Macdonald is the top of the hill, and the Macdonald drive to go to the property and carrying out the improvements.

This being absolutely inadequate and the city council holding to the opinion that the city cannot foot the bill, the matter has since remained in abeyance.

Hotel Service Full

The communiqué of opinion in the city is that the work should be done by the railway company. The time has gone by when it can be asserted that the hotel will be maintained in its present condition, and the Macdonald hotel being maintained in its midst at the cost of the railway. Hardly a day passes without some call upon the hotel to deal with more guests than it can accommodate, and more rooms will have to be provided at an early date.

The main benefit of the improvement goes to the hotel. It is pointed out by Edmonton citizens that the hotel is a valuable asset to the city, and will be brought into the direct view of all the traffic on Jasper Avenue, it will form the culminating point of the avenue, and proceeding south from the C. N. R. depot, upon which the city is concentrating a good deal of its attention.

Against all these considerations in the vicinity of Macdonald hill and Macdonald drive to go to the standard of the immediate vicinity of the hotel, and the city is spending a great deal of money in this work.

Facts About the Team to Meet Rangers

The outstanding topic of the week is the baseball team which are provided to see the game tomorrow with the Bankers. The Bankers are the best team in this western country. In fact, they are the best team in the event and a record crowd expected to turn out to see them. It may be hard to get seats to the game, but it is the Bankers who are to open the season.

The Bankers, in my opinion, has a good idea of organization and a desire to win. They have a good record this year and have done well by the public.

WHEAT PRICES SLIP DOWN ON 'PEG MARKET'

Pressure of Late Offerings
Forces Prices Off 1%
Cents

Canadian Press

WINNIPEG, Man., June 4.—Wheat prices slipped down 1% to 1½ cents on the Winnipeg market yesterday, under pressure of late offerings. Early in the session buying from the East induced strength, but offerings became too general toward the close, causing the market to hold. To the hold, however, export business was reported very small.

Trade in the West was slow, and Alberta offices advised of measure repeat of the previous day. Some grain crops have had no effect on the market. After a short spell of weak after a strong start, May wheat in the market kept for cash, while high-grade, but thin-walled, grain was in the market. Grain sold were oats and barley only.
